No. 27.

Blue Rail

DO you remember those old hair raising tales of your kid days, when you lived in fond dreams and fought "injuns" with Daniel Boone? Screen Magazine No. 27 takes you to old Kentucky to see all that remains of Boone's old fort, founded in April, 1775. In these days of rapid transit the old sea horse has been somewhat forgotten, but Uncle Sam pays Miss Agnes Quirk to conduct a "boarding house" for fish, and we are given an introduction to the sea horse. Did you know that when a cricket chirps he is wooing his mate? We are shown in accurate detail the little courtship, and then from the sublime to the ridiculous, we are introduced to the man who makes the Charlie Chaplin shoes. Dame Courtesy gives us the correct form for the engaged couple to use while in public, and Lillian Russell tells us how to charm by using the hands gracefully. Another futurist movie, this time of Joe Cannon, completes this interesting issue.
